

STELE FOR JOHN LAMBERT (1995)

A 'stele' is a slab or tablet of stone set upright or planted in the ground, found in many ancient cultures, usually bearing sacred, runic, or memorial inscriptions. This short piece was written in 1995, in memory of John Lambert, a much loved colleague and friend at the Royal College of Music.

JEREMY DALE ROBERTS